DISAPPOINTMENTS

I saw a youthful mother,
Once on a summer's day,
Set down a smiling infant,
To watch its frolic play;
It gamboled on the flowers
That decked the carpet o'er,
And seemed, with childish wonder,
Each object to explore.

A something on the instant
Its glad career arrests,
And carnestly it gazes where
A golden sunteam rests;
While on the new found glory
It flaed its wondering eyes,
And trustingly reached forth its band
Te seize the glittering prize.

And now its tiny flugers clasp The treasure rich and rare, Which, in its baby imocence, it surely thought was there. But, ab! that hand uncloses, And to its earnest gaze Reveals no gem of beauty— No bright, imprisoned rays!

And then the first of many tears
Fell on the cherub face—
The first sad disappointment
In life's uncertain race!
And thus it has been with us all,
Who its dark game have played—
We've sought to grasp the sunshine,
And only found the shade.

SPORT.

To see a fellow of a summer morning,
And a large fox-hound of a slumberous sye,
And a slim gun, go slowly lounging by,
About to give the feathered bipeds warning
That probably, they may be shot hereafter,
Excites in me a quiet sort of laughter;
Por, though I am no lover of the sport,
Of "harmless mander," yet it is to me
Almost the funniest thing on earin to see
A corpulent person, breathing with a snort,
Co on a shooting frolic quite alone;
For well I know that, when he's out of town;
He, and his dog and gun will all lie down,
And, undestrustive, sleep till game and light have flown. To see a fellow of a summer morning,

Now is there a father who would do less in the formation of a government for himself. Is there an honest man here who can say, 'I will exclude slavery from the State and locality where I live because it is an evil but I will suffer it to go in where my children are to go.' Here is a there, which is to last so long, and only so long as the territorial condition continues. Now what sort of a government is it your duty to frame? You will readily admit that it is your duty to form such a government as will be for the best interests of the people who are to go there. Is not the Territory that slavery should not go

Democratic Orthodoxy.

Mr. Bonney, of Peoria, is a leading Democrat in Illinois. At the recent Demreport here and I will state you a few other fines very precisely the elements necescases to show you how the Government sary to constitute a Democrat of the true expends money. There are some other orthodox church. The Anti-Lecompton ing the revenue are much worse than at Democrats of Meigs County will please this point. > "A Democrat must sustain the platform, and the pledges of the party. He who dares not do both, is not a Democrat. Republicans profess to decide measures according to their right or wrong; Democrats always decide according to expediency. Republican orators and editors talk stract right and wrong. [Applause.] Republicans who prate about the will of the majority, talk about a principle which has
